SUPPORTING WORKS OF ARTIFACTS

Functional Space for Future-Proofing History

The Pritzker Military Archives Center (PMAC) – located in Kenosha, WI – is a state-of-the-art research center designed to further the mission of the Pritzker Military Museum & Library through the restoration, preservation, and storage of its collections. These collections – many of which are donated – include military artifacts in varied conditions that range from weapons to literature, art, and more.

In order to effectively process each piece, staff at PMAC needed specialized space and solutions to safely evaluate and categorize them for longer-term storage. This need was felt the most in its imaging room and armory, where delicate artifacts are being digitized for future-proofing and long guns are examined and stored. Reaching out to their local Spacesaver representative who they had already relied upon to provide a range of powered mobile and static storage solutions, curators got the exact functional workspace they required.

Measuring 114" L x 36 3/8" H and featuring six lockable casters, these two engineered-to-order (ETO) worktables are the ideal solution for the Center's needs. Configured with six (6) 6" H and four (4) 4.5" H drawers and multiple compartments with adjustable bin dividers, these versatile systems allow staff to store the tools they need to effectively process artifacts – keeping them in as pristine of condition as possible for generations to come. One additional, highly appreciated customized feature of the tables is their rounded corners, which help in reducing staff injury and collections damage.
